Jay W Sharp will join us at 10:15. His article in the February 2010 Desert Exposure encouraged me to contact him. His resume includes having written 250 documentary motion pictures that ran in 111 markets for three years. His career has covered travel, history, archaeology/anthropology, natural history and humor. He is also a published author on historic trails of Texas and is currently working on another about the human experience in a rugged natural environment. It should be worth your time to venture up to the park to see what is on Jay's mind!
